For 30 minutes Walter Brandenburg, inset, clung to the sixteenth floor of this Chicago apartment while waiting for firemen to rescue him when fire broke out in the building. Arrow points to the blanketed windows of his apartment. Just as Brandenburg was about to lose his hold his brother and firemen saved him.

PA NEW OBSERVES

In the downtown district someone has been encouraging a premature celebration of the Fourth of July, and Saturday canon crackers boomed their loudest. The city, it might be kept in mind, has banned, by ordinance, all fireworks this year.

Motorists learned Saturday of the switch of motor car inspections from the yearly to a semi-annual schedule, effective on January 1, 1932. Most drivers of today realize the dangers of the modern highway and it goes to lend emphasis to the need for a more frequent checkup on brakes, lights, motor and other important details.

On Wednesday, July 1, the war savings and thrift stamps held by New Castle purchasers will of necessity be sent into Washington, D. C. for redemption at the cost of the holders. The government will pay mailing costs for those sent in between now and that time.

And remember, you who are Ne-Ca Hi graduates, the annual reunion of the alumni takes place at Cascade Park on Friday evening, June 26.

Fast work was done in clearing up the results of the storm downtown on Saturday night. Trees which were blown across streets were quickly removed, plate glass windows which were broken, were replaced, curb light globes which were lifted off the light posts were replaced, and minor debris was quickly cleared away.

One didn't have to look at the thermometer Saturday to realize that it was hot. For the benefit of those who do not have such an instrument, however, the official temperature for the day was 96 degrees, the highest of the season.

Several pedestrians on the downtown streets were somewhat the worse off Saturday evening when the violent wind whipped the thoroughfares. One or two received slight injuries to their eyes and were treated by doctors.

June 30 marks the close of the post office's fiscal year and July 1 the beginning of a new one—all of which summed up, means the clerks at the local office are finding plenty of book work to do right now. It gets heavier until the final day.

Saturday Evening

Death and destruction rode the wings of the storm that struck downtown New Castle Saturday afternoon just after five o'clock. Alex. Costika, 39, was instantly killed when a falling tree crushed him in the car he was driving down North Jefferson street, valuable shade trees were uprooted, heavy branches of others shorn from the trunks, and plate glass windows at various downtown buildings smashed by the fury of the wind.

The death of Costika was the result of one of the queerest accidents seen here in many years. He was driving down North Jefferson street when the storm was at its worst and it is thought that the heavy rain may have impaired his visibility. As he neared Craig street a huge elm tree between Craig and Grant was uprooted and started falling across the street. By some ironic twist of fate, Costika, who had braved the fury of German shells in France, drove under the tree just as it crashed.

COBH, Ireland, June 22.—The Nautilus, towed by the American Battleship Wyoming, arrived safely off Cobh Harbor at 8 a. m. today.

Cobh tugs went out to bring the polar submarine into port where the batteries will be recharged before its departure for an English shipyard for overhauling. The Battleship Wyoming, with its midshipmen passengers, will continue on its way to Copenhagen, Denmark.

The Wyoming went to the assistance of the Nautilus, in which the famous explorer, Sir Hubert Wilkins, hopes to cruise under the North Pole, after she had sent out a call for aid following the breakdown of her port and starboard engines and in mid-Atlantic.

Hoover's Intervention Brings Almost World Wide Stocks Boom

LONDON, June 22.—News of President Hoover's decision to intervene in the financial crisis of Central Europe today precipitated the first general, almost world-wide stock market boom recorded since the crash of the New York stock market boom in the autumn of 1929.

A Bullish, optimistic tone was in evidence on practically all the trading bourses of the world capitals, according to messages received from all parts of the world by the London stock exchange.

London's stock market led the way with a strong advance in prices of almost all stocks.

Prices on the Berlin bourse advanced from one to ten points. Rome reported gains of five to ten points on all leading stocks.

Cotton made a sensational climb of 34 points on the Liverpool cotton market.

The Bombay stock and other exchanges boomed and prices rose precipitately. Cotton advanced 10 rupees (about $330) per bale, while the quotation on silver advanced 1½ rupees.

New York, June 22.—German government International 5½ per cent bonds, the so-called Young Plan bonds, jumped 4 points to 76 at the opening of the listed bond market today.

Since Thursday these bonds have rallied about 12 points, having sold last week as low as 64½.

The German government 7s moved up 1 1-4 to 100½, showing a gain of 6½ points from the low of last week.

German Agricultural Bank bonds opened the new week about a point higher.

LEBANON, Ind., June 22.—Chicken sandwiches poisoned by inserted capsules of strychnine today had taken two lives and made three seriously ill at a family reunion.

The dead were Alice Jean Simmons, 10, and Virginia Simmons, 14, sisters. A cousin, an uncle and the father of the girls were in critical condition.

Capsule Drops Out.
As one of the guests started eating his sandwich a capsule dropped out and was taken immediately to a doctor who said it was probably quinine. Before his report was received, the reunion broke up in a panic when five were seized with convulsions.

Investigation by the coroner disclosed that thirteen of eighteen sandwiches prepared by the Simmons girls' mother had been poisoned.

Authorities said both the Simmons and Pollards feared some member of their families might be a victim of some dementia that might endanger them again.

Bloodshed In Miners' Strike At Pittsburgh

Deputy Sheriffs Fire When

PITTSBURGH, June 22.—Bloodshed again today marked the strike of more than 10,000 western bituminous coal miners as the strike entered its fifth week.

One miner was killed and seven other persons were wounded when state police and deputy sheriffs broke up a march of the national miners' union followers on the Wildwood mine of the Butler Consolidated Coal company, near here.

Violate Order.
The miners marched in direct violation of a court injunction issued by Judge H. H. Rowand forbidding them from staging such demonstrations in the vicinity of the Wildwood mine.

The dead man, identified through his miner's check, was Pete Zagarac of Wildwood. Seven other persons were wounded and were removed to Pittsburgh hospitals.

Over the week-end the strike situation had been ominously quiet. At daybreak, a mob of 200 men and women advanced on the Wildwood mine, hurling stones and foul invectives at miners who refused to respond to the national miners' union strike call.

Warned in advance of the proposed open violation of the strike injunction, a little group of seven mine deputies were assembled in the company office at the Wildwood mine shortly after midnight. They were awaiting promised reinforcements from the sheriff's office, when word reached them that miners on their way to work had been stoned.

As the mine deputies prepared to investigate the reports, reinforcements from the sheriff's office under William E. Braun arrived, and together they left for the scene of the disorders.

Melee Starts.
A volley of stones greeted them, and in the melee that ensued, Herbert Reel, a deputy, was wounded. He was given emergency treatment and returned to the sheriff's office.

By this time the original group of 200 had been greatly augmented by scores of additional marchers who poured in from the hills around Wildwood and coming from Springdale, Acmetonia, New Kensington and other Allegheny river strike towns.

Seeing that the small force of deputies was so distinctively outnumbered, the mob summoned the courage to charge them. Eyewitnesses told of how the cheering, jeering mob of several hundred men and women, charged madly down the road, hurling stones at the deputies as they advanced.

FRANCE APPEARS COOL ON HOOVER PROPOSAL

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT
International News Service Staff

PARIS, June 22.—President Hoover's proposal for a world-wide postponement of inter-governmental debt payments for a period of one year made anything but a favorable impression in France today.

The corridors of the chamber of deputies fairly hummed with unfavorable comment on the Hoover proposal when the French legislators convened for discussion of the project.

The general tendency of French opinion was to regard the debt postponement proposal as a "German diplomatic victory," believing that President Hoover had been stampeded into making his proposal by America's fear that the economic financial situation in Germany was in danger of driving that country into the arms of Bolshevism, thus endangering American capital invested in Germany.

Two weeks ago I had the same scheme, only I took in more territory. I wanted to cancel everybody's, and every nation's debt, and the only persons that fell for my plan was two guys that owed me. They, immediately agreed and cancelled.

It's not governments debts that's worrying us. Ramsay MacDonald, Hindenburg and Andy Mellon are the only ones worried about government debts (and we pay them to worry).

It's individual debts that's got the 119 million by the nape of the neck. We can always manage to dig up our taxes. Its Old Man Interest that hurts. Yours,

Negro Slayers Are Executed

WERE CONVICTED OF
KILLING BUTCHER

(International News Service)
BELLEFONTE, Pa., June 22.—Convicted of the murder of August Braun, Jr., of West Elizabeth, Cleo Patterson and Clarence Williams, Allegheny county negroes, today went to their death in the electric chair at Rockview prison here.

Patterson was executed first. He was strapped in the death chair and the current was applied at 7:01 a. m., and he was pronounced dead by Dr. W. W. Barrett, prison physician, at 7:06 a. m.

Williams was led into the death chamber and placed in the death chair exactly three minutes later. After one shock of 2,000 volts, 12 amperes, he was pronounced dead at 7:13 a. m.

The two doomed men were accompanied to the execution chamber by Rev. C. F. Laufer, Protestant chaplain at the prison, and Rev. W. W. Canton, negro minister from Pittsburgh.

Neither Show Emotion
Neither of the two showed any emotion as they left their cells and walked to the execution room.

Both, guards reported, slept well last night and ate breakfast at dawn quietly and without visible sign of perturbation. After speaking to the two ministers, Patterson and Williams made the trip to the chair without a word, listening closely as the ministers read excerpts from the psalms.

The two negroes were convicted of Braun's slaying by a jury in Allegheny county criminal court on Feb. 13 of this year. Braun, the state claimed, was killed when he resisted an attempted holdup of his butcher shop by Williams, Patterson and a third man, Robert Smith, who died of pneumonia in the Allegheny county jail before he was sentenced.

Series of Crimes
Judge Frank Reader, of Beaver county, who presided at the trial, passed sentence on Williams and Patterson on March 30, after refusing pleas for a new trial.

The trio indicted for the slaying of Braun was also responsible, the commonwealth claimed during the trial, for a series of holdups in the Pittsburgh region.

CAMP RAPIDAN, Va.,
June 22.—Fortified by a two-night rest in the coolness of the Blue Ridge mountains, President Hoover left his Rapidan fishing camp for Washington early today, prepared to assume personal direction of the formal negotiations with Europe's capitals over his proposal for a one-year holiday from inter-governmental debt payments.

The proposal would delay collections of approximately $250,000,000 due in the next fiscal year of German reparations, allied war debts and other governmental obligations growing out of the World War. The President immediately before his departure from the Capital had proposed the postponement to afford "an economic breathing spell" for the world and to save Germany from possible financial and political chaos.

President Pleased
The week-end had afforded the State Department opportunity to lay the exact terms of his "depression moratorium" before the Allied and Central powers, and he expected, soon after he returned to his desk, to begin receiving official advice from abroad as to its reception.

The President departed from Camp Rapidan immediately after six o'clock breakfast satisfied he had scored a ten strike with his bids for a free year for world economic recovery.

The foreign press dispatches he perused over Sunday have convinced him his idea will be acclaimed abroad while further long distance calls to absent legislators of both parties in ratifying the year's respite to be allowed the Allies in meeting (Continued On Page Two)

Almost 400 Bills Await Action By Governor Pinchot

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, June 22.—Three hundred and ninety-nine bills, approved by the last legislature, today awaited action by Gov. Gifford Pinchot before next Saturday, last day on which the executive may pass on measures.

Many of the bills still awaiting action are of considerable importance and the governor was expected to begin work on their approval or veto here sometime today.

By the time professional help had arrived, Mr. Gilbert had restored the child to consciousness, and his heart beat could be plainly felt. When more skillful hands arrived to take charge, Mr. Gilbert retired from the scene and the two continued their journey to Altoona.

Mr. Walters stated today that had it not been for the prompt work of Mr. Gilbert and his knowledge of what to do in such an emergency, the child might never have been restored to consciousness.

town on Saturday which proves that the storm must have centered locally.

A tree blown down by the severe wind storm Saturday afternoon nearly crashed through the roof of a brick dwelling owned by Ed Young on Walnut street. The limb of the tree several inches thick broke off and fell on the roof. Had the roof been very flimsy, it would certainly have caused a lot of damage.

Trolley service on the Croton line was somewhat crippled when a large limb of a tree on Walnut street broke off and lodged directly on the trolley wire. It took about an hour to repair the damage and to get the trolley service restored.

A large tree blew down on Richelieu avenue that completely blocked the street, necessitating quick action by several in the neighborhood to get the tree sawed in two and to allow traffic to resume.

Potato plants are in blossom in fields along Lake Erie, autoists who have been in that vicinity in the past few days relate. There should be a crop of early potatoes in that section.

With strawberries and cherries reported abundant at the present time, none should be allowed to go to waste. All that are not needed for use at the present time should be canned or preserved for use during the winter. It should be the aim at the present time to prevent waste of any crop. "Can all you can," the old war time slogan, should be reiterated everywhere.

The storm proved disastrous to scores of radio aerials in many parts of the city.

Among the many who came to the beach at No. 2 dam attired in pajamas Sunday was one girl in an outfit on which were inscribed the names of nearly every college and university in the land.

A lot of reddened arms, necks and faces today attest the fact that the owners of the same were out in the sun yesterday. Old Sol beat down with summer fierceness.

Swimming was one of the favorite occupations of New Castle folks yesterday, the various bathing pools being well patronized.

Broken limbs and uprooted trees in all sections of the city attest the fury of Saturday evening's storm. A great amount of damage was caused.

New Castle won recognition in state circles Saturday, when Rev.
Nathan McCullough, pastor of the Plainsboro United Presbyterian church was elected State Chaplain of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.
McCullough's candidacy was sponsored by the Harry L. McBride post of which he is a member, and he won handily.

Cherries are now appearing in the market. There is a bountiful crop plenty enough for both bird and man this year, and luscious cherry pies are now on the menu of many.

Bell Telephone Company linemen were kept on the jump after the storm Saturday, as falling trees or limbs of trees put telephones out of commission at many homes about the city and suburbs.

During the severe wind and rain storm of Saturday afternoon, a beehive the property of Henry Badger, of Walnut street, was blown several feet away. The bees for the most part were safe and sound and the hive was retrieved and set up again.
Only a few of the honey makers were drowned by the rain. Rain storms are no respecters of bees hard at work.

Work is in progress on the con-

On a recent visit to Chicago Pa moving picture shows there advertised that they did not show gangster plays. Chicago must be quite tired of gangsters. Perhaps they see enough in real life and do not desire to see them in the movies.

During the storm Saturday a large tree fell in front of a local undertaker's garage and it required an hour and a half's work in chopping to clear the way.

Pa Newse made a trip out to Camp
East Brook, the Y. W. C. A. camp for girls, Saturday evening. The girls were running around quite excited about a party they were preparing for—half of the crowd were dressed as boys and the other half were their female escorts—with corsages.

Camp East Brook is more beautiful than ever, this year. That pretty rose bush on the front terrace, the beautiful trees surrounding the sparkling swimming pool, the Nes-hannock river below and the miles of scenery, make the camp unsurpassed in attractiveness.

Smoot In Favor

Mr. Hoover was returned also with a champion who stands ready to maneuver his confirmation through the senate—Reed Smoot of Utah, chairman of the powerful senate finance committee and member of the American Debt Funding Commission who engineered original ratification of the Allied debt funding agreements through the upper body of congress.

Smoot arrived belatedly at camp yesterday from his home state to have his first personal talk with the President about the proposed dip into the international financial situation, and soon thereafter issued a formal statement, declaring it "should go a long way toward lessening the burden of depression and restoring prosperity at home and abroad," and pledging he would "do everything within my power to advance it."

Further conferences will be held at the White House today with available members of congress. Mr.
Hoover let it be known at the time he made his plan public he would have held it up until a greater cross-section of the leaders had been consulted had not his hand been forced by premature publicity.

The ambassadors of Great Brit-

No doubt our friends see the advertisements of Funeral Directors in some of the larger cities in which they state what a wonderful funeral outfit they can give at greatly reduced prices. Their is nothing we know of that the public is compelled to purchase at some time in their lives that they know as little about the value of as funeral furnishings, reading these advertisements and looking at the picture of the outfit furnished.

A great many people think that they are doing the public a great favor by selling their goods at such a low figure, but we want to say that any legitimate funeral director in New Castle can give you the same outfit and no doubt as good or better service at the same price and in a great many cases at quite a reduction from the prices you see advertised in these papers.

STERN-HOOPES WEDDING EVENT

The spacious living room of the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Stern on East Hazel street, beautifully decorated with ferns, palms, peonies and orange blossoms, formed a garden like setting for the wedding of their daughter, Miss Inez Elizabeth Stern when she became the bride of Clarence Chester Hoopes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester A. Hoopes of York, Pa., Saturday afternoon.

To strains of the Lohengrin wedding march played by Roy Strobel, the bride entered on the arm of her father, Raymond Stern who gave her away. She was lovely in a gown of white chiffon fashioned with full ankle length skirt and veil which fell from a cap caught with orange blossoms. She wore elbow length lace mitts, and carried an arm bouquet of pink roses and blue delphinium.

A fraternity brother of the groom, H. Berline Smith, of Ellwood City, served as best man.

The ceremony which took place at 4 o'clock in the presence of relatives and friends numbering thirty, was performed by the Rev. G. S. Bennett, pastor of the First Christian church, who officiated with the ring service.

During the congratulatory period, appropriate selections played softly by the pianist, were heard through the rooms, and later, a buffet lunch was served. Green and white tones, in keeping with the wedding appointments, prevailed throughout in the menu.

The bride is a graduate of the New Castle Senior high school with the class of '28 and of Beckley college at Harrisburg in '29. For the past two years, she has been on the commercial teaching staff at the Union Township high school. The groom, is a graduate of the York high school, class of '22 and of Beckley college in '28. He is now employed as accountant with the Ammon R. Smith Auto company at York.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoopes left later in the day for a motor trip to Cleveland, O., Buffalo, N. Y., Niagara Falls, Watkins Glens, New York, and Harrisburg. At the conclusion of the wedding trip, they will take up their residence in York.

For traveling, the bride wore a blue ensemble, with beige accessories to match.

Guests were present from Ellwood City, Butler, Youngstown, O., and York.

Wimodausis Outing.

The Wimodausis will hold its annual picnic at Cascade Park picnic grounds on Wednesday at 12:30 p. m. The members will provide their table service, bread and butter and tureen.

RAMBLING THROUGH THE NEWS

WORK on the permanent improving of the highway between New Wilmington and Mercer, and the plan for opening that highway for traffic in September, lead to the suggestion that some consideration should be given to the idea of widening the New Wilmington road, from Walmo to the college town. A two-foot extension to the paving on either side could be made without much expense. The road to New Wilmington, one of the first improved in the county, is one of the heaviest travelled, and at the same time is the narrowest, or at least as narrow as any that exist in the district. With the opening of the new road on to Mercer traffic will be much greater than heretofore.

Thomas Liggett's announcement of the plans to make McConnell's Mills, in the eastern end of the county a state park will meet with ready approval here. Mr. Liggett was at the head of the successful move which made Cook's forest a state park, and the same ideas are to be used to further the McConnell's Mills project. There is no more beautiful natural scenery in the state than can be found at McConnell's Mills.

There is abundant evidence everywhere that the crops this year, of fruit, vegetables and all kinds of eatables, are to be exceedingly good. This is cheering news. But there should be none of this abundant supply wasted. Food that is not needed at the present time, in the shape of fruits, garden produce, etc., should be preserved for use later. Every agency, and every individual should begin stressing this idea—Can everything you do not need at the present time.

What New Castle needs at the present time is a moratorium on spreading of unfounded rumors.

Sudden death of the unfortunate victim of the storm on North Jefferson street, Saturday evening, brought reference from many of the city pulpits on Sunday morning of the every present menace of sudden death, and the necessity of "being prepared." And not only was the fact emphasized from the pulpit. Most every citizen who discussed the tragedy had the same idea to stress.

One of the things that brings criticism on those at the head of state and governmental affairs, is the long time it takes to get a project started, after it has been authorized by the state or national legislatures. Weeks ago, the Pymatuning dam was authorized by the state legislature and approved by the governor, but bids have not even been asked as yet. The same thing holds true of the post office project. New Castle has been apportioned the appropriation, and has had it for months, but it is taking an exceedingly long time to get the project under way. Both of these projects were presented in the line of unemployment aids, but it seems to be taking a long time to get them started.

President Hoover's proposal of a year's breathing spell in the matter of payment of war debts by the nations, looks like a move that is destined to mark the turning point in the era of world depression, leaders of the nation assert. The president offers the U. S. debtor nations a year's relief from payment of war debts to this nation, if the debtor nations will in turn grant Germany a year's relief from payments to them. The president believes that this plan will allow all nations to get on their feet again, and will aid in restoring prosperity both abroad and in America.

It's rather hard to reconcile the ideas of great distress and depression in this country, with the scenes that are to be noted on the highways on a Sunday afternoon, such as yesterday. Thousands of autos were on the roads in this district, and most of them were going nowhere in particular, the owners and passengers just being "out for a drive." Traffic on many of the highways was exceedingly heavy yesterday.

All Of Us

Why Were You Bitter?
Because You Were Hurt
And Because You Didn't Understand

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Have you been bitter? Have you sneered at life? Have you said there is no Truth, no Courage, no Loyalty, no Fairness in this world? And did you learn, at last, that was wrong with you? Did you find that you had been bitter because you had been hurt?

Almost always that's the trouble. We are bitter because we have been hurt. We are hurt and we want our revenge. We abuse life, we abuse people, we nurse our wrath, and we walk the streets like sand which men advertise that we are martyrs of injustice. We do not carry a painted sign, but we advertise our bitterness through the sadness in the eyes and the droop of the mouth.

And why were you hurt? Because we were ignorant. Because we'd build a wall between ourselves and other people. Because we had the wrong idea about life and human beings.

We expected too much. We asked too much. We weren't perfect, but we expected other people to be so. We wanted life to take care of us and we didn't realize that we must take care of ourselves. We called ourselves Idealists and we didn't know we were just foolish children. Then something happened. There was sickness, there was poverty, there was death and there was loneliness. We were terrified, humiliated, disappointed and angry. So we said: "At last we know the truth. Now we know what human beings are really like. Nobody cares what happens to us. This is a world of Dog-eat-Dog and every man for himself." We called ourselves "disillusioned" and the cheerful grin became a snarl and the childish faith became distrust.

That's how it happened, and it happened because we were blind and foolish and we didn't know ourselves any better than we knew other people. We were selfish and we thought we were weak. We were weak and we thought we were Noble Beings. And when life put us to the test, we turned coward and were bitter.

It's done that so often that I know this is true. . . . And if you will examine yourself you may find that it is true of you, too.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

ONLY RUINS NOW

Every one who has followed "El Camino Real" in California from San Diego to San Francisco or "The Spanish Trail" from Saint Augustine, Florida, to Yuma, Arizona, is deeply impressed with the zeal, fearlessness, endurance, intelligence, craftsmanship and great executive ability of the priests of the Roman Church who attempted to Christianize the New World and teach the Indians the Arts of Civilization. The modern traveler sees the ruins of the great Church buildings, their foundations in which were the living quarters of the padres and their gardens and he wonders at the driving genius of these men.

The materials out of which the edifices were constructed were not made by the fathers themselves, neither did they themselves erect the walls and roof over the beautiful creations. They brought no workmen or material with them from Spain. They were masters of all of the arts employed and they taught the savage how to make the materials and how to put these materials together. The Franciscans were regular he-men.

Earthquake, hurricane and storm have ravished these wonderful buildings. The Mission of San Juan Capistrano in California, and that of San Juan in San Antonio, Texas, were the most ambitious, architecturally, that have come down to us and they are today only ruins. Something ought to be done to restore all of them that there should be in North America a perpetual memorial to the hardy Church pioneers.

There is one in San Antonio which has been preserved but not for Church purposes, it is the Alamo, cradle of Texas independence—originally a Mission. It was there that Col. Travis and 182 Immortals were massacred to a man by Santa Anna and his Mexicans following the revolt of Texas from Mexico. It is now used as a museum.

Just Folks

SILENT
I did not argue with the men,
It seemed a waste of words.
He gave to chance the wondrous plan
That gave sweet song to birds.

He gave to force the wisdom wise
That shaped the honey bee
And made the useful butterfly
So beautiful to see.

And as we walked 'neath splendid trees
Which cast a friendly shade,
He said: "Such miracles as these
By accident were made."

Too well I know what accident
And chance and force disclose
To think blind fury could invent
The beauty of a rose.

I let him talk and answered not.
I merely thought it odd
That he could view a garden plot
And not believe in God.

The Men's personal officer of the University of Wisconsin says college men have changed their drinking habits. When prohibition first came they drank their liquor in the alleys, but now the cucumber grows for some reason or other. We used to watch how this worked. One bird planted his seed on the 26th of June and he had cucumbers as long as a pickhandle and right across the fence was a patch planted on the longest day of the year and the small crop of nubbins were so short they could be used for corks in pint bottles.

"Step by step we gain the heights, Onward striving, side by side. Oh, the sweet and rare delights—Where the Open Road leads by. Shall we linger in the fields? Proud steps before us yield. Patient toil at last will yield Unto everyone the prize."

Away back, and even now, some people think the right time to plant cucumber seeds is on the longest day in June, the 21st. This is supposed to make the cucumber grow for some reason or other. We used to watch how this worked. One bird planted his seed on the 26th of June and he had cucumbers as long as a pickhandle and right across the fence was a patch planted on the longest day of the year and the small crop of nubbins were so short they could be used for corks in pint bottles.

One of the serious things that has been responsible for Scarface Al Capone going to jail for a period is that he beat the government out of income taxes he did not pay. Some neighbors are funny. I know from experience how they react, and when I hear you say that you fear a neighbor or want nothing to do with him, I wonder what dirty trick you have played on him to stir him up. Some years ago a man here in town, Mr. A, raked and swept his yard and thus accumulated a pile of small stones. Having no other convenient way to dispose of them, he procured a shovel and tossed them over a fence to his neighbor's driveway. He didn't mean any harm. His only desire was to get rid of the stones. And when his neighbor, Mr. B, promptly shoveled them back over the fence, this Mr. A told people he had a dangerous and quarrelsome neighbor. Can you beat that? Here's another case. Vanderbilt's Divorce Will Be Sensation

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., Plans Heated Contest Of Divorce

FIGHT TO FINISH BEING PLANNED

By CAROL CROSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

RENO, Nev. June 22—Agghast at the threat of a bitter and sensationally contested divorce suit, Reno awaited the next move in the Vanderbilt-Arno feud.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., who filed suit for divorce from his wife, charging extreme cruelty, and his counsel, Sam Platt, declined to confirm a report that he planned an alienation of affections suit against Peter Arno, New York satirical artist.

Arno was said by his attorney, Clyde Souter, a former New Jersey district judge, to be "seriously contemplating" a slander suit against Vanderbilt and Platt.

Fight To Finish
With a fight to the finish apparently looming in the divorce suit as a result of announcement by Mrs. Mary Logan Vanderbilt that if any divorce were granted it would be to her, the Vanderbilts returned to the Reno social life, out of which apparently had arisen their marital rift.

Feeling much better after a long conference with her Attorney William Woodburn at which she denied any misconduct and adopted plans for contesting her husband's suit, Mrs. Vanderbilt left the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vencill, accompanied by her host and hostess, for dinner and an unannounced destination.

Darkness encircled the home of Arno who came here to divorce his wife, Lois Long, New York writer. Arno has been here the required six weeks but his attorney indicated his divorce suit would not be filed at least until Monday when the divorce mill is expected to grind out close to a hundred more separations.

No Cruelty Details
Vanderbilt's divorce suit contained no details of the cruelty alleged, taking advantage of a provision of the Nevada law which as a secrecy measure permits the complaint to state only the general allegation unless a bill of particulars is demanded.

Indignant denial, however, by Mrs. Vanderbilt, through her Attorney William Woodburn, that she had ever been kissed by Arno was believed to have revealed at least one of the counts of cruelty to be set up by Vanderbilt.

Firemen Pull Barn To Ground

Structure Believed To Be In Dangerous Condition On Saturday

One of the highlights of the period just preceding the terrific storm of Saturday afternoon was the order of Superintendent of Public Safety Reeves to the fire department to pull down a large barn along the Big Run Creek near the bathing beach. The barn, had previously been reported in a precarious position and ready at any time to fall to the ground. The barn had been in a dangerous condition while children of the neighborhood had continued to seek refuge in its interior.

Just before the storm approached children as usual were inside at play.

Upon the order of Reeves, central station firemen, assisted by firemen of the fifth ward under the direction of Fire Chief Lynn responded. A cable was tied to a corner of the barn and the structure was pulled to the ground. It was fortunate that this was done, according to Chief Lynn who said the storm which came after the work was ended would have demolished the barn and perhaps proved disastrous to the children who were then playing inside.

AWAIT DECISION ON BILL
County Treasurer G. R. McQuis-ton has on his books 1000 writs of taxes filed by 48 county collectors on seated lands. Until the signing of a tax bill at Harrisburg nothing can be done by the official in collecting this tax.

There are two bills through for the governor to sign. One mitigates the tax bill passed in 1929 reducing the penalty to 6 per cent per annum rather than one per cent a month and making sales of property on which tax is unpaid to occur one year afterwards rather than the following May.

The other bill negates the text of both and revives the old bill which the act of 1929 replaced.

Vanderbilt's Divorce Will Be Sensation

Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., Plans Heated Contest Of Divorce

FIGHT TO FINISH BEING PLANNED

By CAROL CROSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

RENO, Nev. June 22—Agghast at the threat of a bitter and sensationally contested divorce suit, Reno awaited the next move in the Vanderbilt-Arno feud.

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., who filed suit for divorce from his wife, charging extreme cruelty, and his counsel, Sam Platt, declined to confirm a report that he planned an alienation of affections suit against Peter Arno, New York satirical artist.

Arno was said by his attorney, Clyde Souter, a former New Jersey district judge, to be "seriously contemplating" a slander suit against Vanderbilt and Platt.

Fight To Finish
With a fight to the finish apparently looming in the divorce suit as a result of announcement by Mrs. Mary Logan Vanderbilt that if any divorce were granted it would be to her, the Vanderbilts returned to the Reno social life, out of which apparently had arisen their marital rift.

Feeling much better after a long conference with her Attorney William Woodburn at which she denied any misconduct and adopted plans for contesting her husband's suit, Mrs. Vanderbilt left the home of Mr. and Mrs. Vencill, accompanied by her host and hostess, for dinner and an unannounced destination.

Darkness encircled the home of Arno who came here to divorce his wife, Lois Long, New York writer. Arno has been here the required six weeks but his attorney indicated his divorce suit would not be filed at least until Monday when the divorce mill is expected to grind out

An amendment to the charter of the Little Beaver Cemetery association was granted by Judge Hildebrand this morning. The association has no capital stock. The amended charter also provides for the taking over of the old cemetery, by which the new cemetery is

Local Legislators Are Given Tribute

Weingartner, McElwee And Richards Honored By Civic Clubs

Joint Session Held By Rot- ary, Kiwanis And Lions Clubs

High admiration and respect for the services of Lawrence county's three state legislators at Harrisburg during the past winter was bestowed at noon today when the members of the city's Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions Clubs, with a few invited guests, gathered jointly in The Castleton dining room to do them honor in a fitting testimonial affair.

State Senator George T. Weingartner and Assemblymen Bart E. Richards and William McElwee occupied the places of honor at the speakers' table. Around them were seated the service club leaders and others who participated in the program.

Preceding the dinner, which marked the Rotarians' customary Monday luncheon, the Rev. G. S. Bennett, of the First Christian church, a member of the Lions club, offered grace. Piano numbers were furnished during the dinner by Miss Olive Sampson, local pianist.

A pep singing round featured the program, period with Lions W. O. "Red" Williams and William McCombs directing and Rotarian T. H. Webber, Jr., at the piano.

President T. W. McCullough of the Rotary club, who occupied the presiding chair, extended an official greeting to the visiting clubmen, and then presented President Earl Ramsey of the Lions and President C. D. Parker of the Kiwanis club.

Preliminary announcements were made, after which Mr. McCullough introduced the joint committee on arrangements for the testimonial meeting. B. K. Thacker, representing the Lions, was chairman, while Kiwanian Charles McGrath and Rotarian L. E. Round assisted.

With introductions over, Rotarian Round assumed full charge and proceeded with the program.

"These legislators have been worth their weight in gold to Lawrence county," he told the assembled business and professional men of the city. "They have been independent, fearless and for their clear-thinking over the matters which concern our state we admire them."

Chairman Round lauded them, explaining that his appreciation was the unanimous expression of every Rotarian, Lion and Kiwanian in the audience. He told the group that our state senator and assemblymen have been unanimous in purpose and have striven to accomplish the things which would benefit their constituents the most. He praised them for what they have achieved.

Then turning to Senator Weingartner, Mr. Round asked for a few words. Responding, he told his hosts in well-chosen words of his appreciation for the dinner and said that to him it marks "one of the proudest, if not the proudest, moment in my life." Briefly, he assured them that the county's legislators voted their honest and own true convictions in matters at Harrisburg, and while holding in mind at all times the commonwealth as a whole, had always kept foremost the people of the districts which they spoke for.

Both Assemblymen Richards and McElwee followed the senator, and their responses to the introductions were just as appropriate. They amplified what Mr. Weingartner had said concerning their obligations to their constituent, and thanked them for the testimonial.

Climaxing the speeches, Mr.

Highway Police Make Arrests

One Arrest Made On Charge Of Operating Car While Under Liquor In- fluence

State Highway patrolmen of the local station were busy Saturday and Sunday night looking for violators of the motor laws of Pennsylvania and as the result approximately a half dozen autoists were placed under arrest. Most of the arrests were made for operating a car while under the influence of intoxicants. He was given an examination then a hearing by Alderman W. E. Marshall and released under $1,500 bail for court trial.

State Highway patrol reports also showed that Carl Lucci, Sixth street, Youngstown was placed under arrest for operating a machine with one head light. A State Highway patrolman noticed the car, with nine occupants, run off the New Castle-Willow Grove highway. The driver said the lights from another machine had blinded him but the patrolman stated that no other machine was near the car at the time it went over the embankment. No one was hurt.

Foster's Weather Forecast

WASHINGTON, June 22.—New moon of June occurs on the 16th; most old traditions credit the new moon period with averaging cool and wet weather, but June, 1931, is not expected to exactly agree with these old sayings, but to be exception to such ideas that are founded on averages of past experience and not upon scientific theories. Warm and rather dry weather will be expected at time new moon occurs this month, a few days of summer conditions, but temperatures will be expected to work lower averages and the precipitation to make a general increase during period following new moon and until about June 28; while precipitation is expected to increase during this period, it will not become excessive but will average about normal for the last half of June. The most important point regarding precipitation of last half of June will be that it will be fairly well distributed over the continent and bring considerable relief to dry subsoils of northwest, north and southwest Great Central valleys. As the earth is now nearing what is termed the opposition of Jupiter, precipitation will average what is termed "spotty" during the near future; that is, heavy rains in small areas and comparatively dry only a few miles away from such areas of heavy precipitation. Heaviest precipitation during last half of June will be expected as outlined in bulletin of May 30, near 90th meridian, an area from and including western Great Lakes to Gulf, and on central and northern Pacific slope. Increase in precipitation in western Great Central valleys during last half of June will not take the form of heavy rains nor to continue after July 1, but will be of general benefit for the time being.

As storm wave of moderately severe force crosses continent during week centering on 21, most severe storms, heaviest and most general precipitation of month will be expected; in fact, this storm wave is expected to cause the last heavy general rains of season over a great part of continent and general average moisture for North America is expected to decrease after this storm wave has passed. While most storm force during this period is expected in southern hemisphere, it is expected to cause a bright spot in North American crop conditions with general and needed moisture. Conditions during storm wave centering on 21 and during storm wave of moderate force expected to cross continent during week centering on 26, however, will be very favorable to the formation of dangerous local storms in Great Central valley area. These two storms are each expected to cause cool waves that will threaten northern fields and western mountain country with severe, local hail storms.

Cropweather features, expected during July will appear in the next weekly bulletin. Moon phases that occur in the near future are as follows, given to nearest hour of Greenwich civil time; to change Greenwich civil time to your local standard time, count one hour earlier for each 15 degrees you are located from Greenwich: First quarter June 23 at 1 hour; full moon 30 at 1 hour; last quarter July 7 at 24 hours; new moon 15 at 13 hours; first quarter 22 at 5 hours; full moon 29 at 13 hours; last quarter August 6 at 16 hours.

Vanderbilt Promises To Make Things "Hot" For New York Artist

Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., To "Get" Peter Arno, For Misdeed

Scion Of Wealthy Family Has Already Filed Action For Reno Divorce

By CAROL CROSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

RENO, Nev., June 22.—Wide open Reno legalized gambling and five minute divorces, but won't stand for society dueling.

There are but two loopholes to this ruling. Duelling with eggs—vantage unspecified—may be practiced under police supervision and exceptional instances, unloaded guns may be used.

The announcement of Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., writer and scion of the multi-millionaire Vanderbilt family, that he planned to "get" Peter Arno, satirical artist, evoked the ruling from Chief of Police J. M. Kirkley.

Will Get Even
The Chief's concern, however, proved unnecessary today when "Vanderbilt" explained that when he intended to "get" Arno, he did not mean it in any sense of physical violence.

He promised, however, to "make things unpleasant" for the man he accused of "kissing Mrs. Vanderbilt." Vanderbilt was one up on Arno in the matter of divorce. He already had a suit on file against Mrs. Mary Logan Vanderbilt, his pretty wife, charging extreme cruelty.

Arno was scheduled to file a divorce suit this week against Lois Long, the New York writer, and Miss Long was reported all ready to come right back with a cross complaint and ask for the decree herself.

down in their path by the deputies, then about a quarter of a mile from the mine, but the enraged strikers and their sympathizers disregarded that and charged onward.

Answer Fire
Deputies said the mob fired first, and that shots also were known to nearby houses. Massed together in the middle of the road, the deputies answered gunfire with gunfire.

Shrieks of the mob rent the air and the advancing column faltered to remove its wounded from the middle of the road. Meanwhile, the deputies fired warning shots into the air.

The marchers had had enough. Their ranks broke and they fled in all directions as the deputies pursued, hurling more tear gas and continuing the gunfire.

Many of them sought the protection of their homes, but they were followed by deputies who brought them out as prisoners.

They arrested 26 men and two women, who were taken to the sheriff's office to be charged later with rioting and violation of Judge Rowland's injunction.

Six of the wounded were taken to the West Penn hospital and the other to the Allegheny General hospital.

Four of the wounded gave their names at the West Penn hospital as Peter Brown, 35, Russellton; Charles Bestwick, 44, Wildwood; Robert Young, New Kensington, and Adolph Walter. Another wounded man was identified through his check as Nick Evansosick. The others have not been identified.

Mass Meeting Yesterday

Acmetonia, scene of fatal rioting three years ago when State Trooper John J. Downey of Norristown was shot and killed, was the scene of a mass meeting yesterday where the fatal march this morning was planned.

William Z. Foster, who figured prominently in the steel strike here in 1919, and now secretary of the Trades Unity league, addressed the meeting.

Other demonstrations were staged today throughout the strike-torn area. Hundreds of men, women and even children mobilized during the night at Bentleyville for mass picketing of the Vesta coal company's two mines at Richfieldville and Fredricktown.

Those marches got under way at daylight, the miners singing and urging employed men to join the walkout.

So great was the excitement that the wounded lay in the road where they had fallen for half an hour before they were loaded into trucks and taken to Pittsburgh.

It was estimated that 200 shots were fired during the pitched battle, endangering not only the lives of the opposing groups but those of families living along the Wildwood and Gisonia roads as well.

Bullets whizzed past the residence of John Milas, behind which the miners retreated. His wife and two children, terror-stricken, dropped to the floor for protection from the flying bullets, several of which lodged in the timbers of their house.

Across the road lies Clarence Stumptz, with his wife and four children. Half a dozen bullets hit his house, he said.

According to Braunt, leader of the deputies, he approached the lead of the marchers and reminded him that the march was in violation of a court injunction and told him that his orders were to halt the march.

"We don't care about the injunction; we're going to parade," Braun said the marchers' spokesman replied. "Then the march began, and stones began to whiz through the air. One hit a deputy in the face."

"We fired a volley into the air and when that failed to halt them we leveled our guns on the crowd."

Coal Strike Chieftains Threaten To Extend Walk-Out

OPERATORS PLAN STRIKE BREAKERS

(International News Service)
ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., June 22.—Delivering a sharp answer to operators' announcements that they will bring strike breakers into this Belmont county area, coal strike chieftains today threatened to extend their walk-out over the entire Eastern Ohio field.

Plans for enlarging the strike were made known at three mass meetings in Belmont and Jefferson counties by Robert Sivert, official of the National Miners Union, who declared that 2500 miners have already joined Ohio and Pennsylvania strikers in West Virginia.

Sivert's remarks were considered a retort to the declaration by officials of the Lorain Coal and Dock Co. that they will import labor here this week to halt the strike at Blaine mine, where 400 workmen quit their jobs.

Clashes Expected
Exhibiting results of the three mass meetings as evidence of their success, officials of the N. M. U. said at least 4000 strikers and their sympathizers were in attendance.

Clashes between the N. M. U. and the United Mine Workers, rival unions, were expected to break out again this week. Sivert said the N. M. U. will continue to oppose at the temple of the N. M. W. to unionize this territory.

Spokesmen for the latter organization said the R. L. Hanna Coal Co. had agreed to meet one of the strikers' demands and allow check weighmen at the Piney Fork Mine near Steubenville.

ROAMING With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

One of the surest ways to invite disaster, it seems to me, is to write a round trip check for your motor license plates. And yet people do it, or try to. Talked to one of the motor patrolmen over the week end who was out paying a few social visits on rubber check artists and found that there are still people who try it.

It seems incredible to believe that anyone would try to fool the Bureau of Motor Vehicles for a ten dollar note, and yet they do. The answer is easy, and the outcome certain. A motor patrolman drives up to the house, asks a few questions, most of which concerns a little hard cash in place of the second hand check, plus a five dollar bill for costs. And the rubber check artist pays up—or else.

Another game that gets spiked oftener than it works is that of buying Ohio license plates when you live just inside the borders of Pennsylvania. In this way the motorist cuts his cost down. For a short time. The fine cats up a couple of years license fees.

Just now the patrolmen are working on a campaign against the overloaders who drive trucks. Every truck can carry just so much weight plus ten percent overload, and every truck owner knows what his load limit is. In spite of this, some of them load their trucks to 20 and thirty per cent overload, but the day of reckoning catches up with them.

One of them knocked off the other afternoon with 3000 pounds over his ten percent overload limit. The answer was a fifty dollar fine plus costs, which would eat into his profit on the load considerably. It's a tough racket, trying to beat the state out of the money due it, but there are some who try it. Just like the lad who doesn't believe a fresh paint sign, or wants to see if the circular saw really cuts.

Had the pleasure of visiting the Men's Bible Class of the First M. E. Church Sunday morning. A real class, that men's group. A nicely furnished room of its own. Fact is the pews are so well upholstered that it would be a temptation to take a sleep on them.

One of the things that makes a town its churches, and one of the things that makes churches the Bible Classes. Some day somebody is going to organize all the men's Bible Classes of the city into a group for the purpose of promoting church and civic consciousness. Band these men into one group and they would be a factor in the life of the city that would be reckoned with.

Blanks Secured For Candidates

New Ruling Makes July 2 First Day On Which To Secure Nomination Signatures

Under a new ruling that has been made under an act of the recent legislature, the date for taking out nominations for candidates has been changed, according to County Commissioners Clerk, William A. Eakin.

Formerly July 1 was the first day on which signatures could be obtained. The new ruling changes this to July 2. August 10 is the last day on which papers can be taken out.

Some of the city candidates have already secured old blanks which were in stock at the commissioners' office. Mr. Eakin states that new blanks have been secured which are slightly different, and those who have already secured blanks should exchange them for the new ones.

The new blanks are pink and the old ones were white. Ten names are required on the blanks for the city candidates and one hundred for county offices.

Flier And Wife Killed As Plane Falls To Earth

Myron F. Hutchinson, 28, And Wife Killed, Plane Falls On Golf Course

WERE MARRIED LESS THAN YEAR

(International News Service)

PELHAM MANOR, N. Y., June 22.—Wreckage of a cabin monoplane on one of the rolling fairways of the Pelham Country club here today bore mute evidence to the tragedy which yesterday took the lives of Myron F. Hutchinson, 28, of Elmira, N. Y., and his bride of less than a year.

Flying from Boston to Roosevelt field, L. I., the plane lost altitude, struck the top limb of a tree on the golf course and dove into the turf a few yards from where hundreds of spectators had congregated to watch a golf match. Hutchinson, who was piloting the plane, was killed instantly. His wife was injured so seriously that she died a short time later in New Rochelle hospital.

Hutchinson, a graduate of Syracuse university, was eastern district manager for the Sunbeam Aircraft corporation, of Detroit. Mrs. Hutchinson, who was 28, was the former Miss Grace Elizabeth Jordan, of Chattanooga, Tenn.

Ceremonial Ends Week Of Camping

Girl Reserves At Camp East
Brook Launch Lighted Ships On Sea Of Life

GUESTS PRESENT
AT FINAL EVENT

A silent moon, a dying bon-fire and a group of guests looked on, last night, during one of the prettiest, original and impressive ceremonies ever held at Camp East Brook.

It took place on the banks of the Neshannock, a short distance below the beautiful Y. W. C. A. camp for girls, in the dark. Thirty-five Girl Reserves of the Benjamin Franklin Junior high school arose from around the camp fire, lighted small candles, placed the candles on small "boats" made of bark, and launched them on the current of the Neshannock.

It was a sight long to be remembered by the girls taking part and the group of on-lookers. The boats, thirty-five in number, floating off in the distance with lighted candles, not only were impressive for their appearance, but for the ideals for which they stood.

Last night's ship ceremonial closed a perfect week of camp life for the group of young Misses—a week crowded full of wonderful events, sports, games, parties, hikes, picnics, overnight outings, aquatic sports and fellowship with each other.

It closed with a ship ceremonial because the entire week's program had been carried out as if the camp were in reality big ocean liners. The girls were divided into three ship's crews—and vied for honors, and points in various contests and tournaments.

Miss Evea Coulter, chief advisor of the Franklin Girl Reserve club, announces this morning that the Europa, German liner, captained by Carrie Jane Roberts, was the winning ship of the week. Dorothy Sonnyborn was pilot and the crew consisted of Frances Doyle, Phyllis Dilks, Minnie Sloan, Virginia Mitchell, Betty Shoaf, Dorothy McCall, Lila Jean McCall, Olga Komarc, Josephine Windish, Weltha Johnson, Betty Ober, Jane Bryan. Each of those girls were awarded a small Girl Reserve emblem for their service. The winning ship had 162 points.

Coming second in the ship contest was the Rotterdam, of the Dutch line, captained by Ruth Phillips and piloted by Mettie Round. The Rotterdam had 114 points.

The Lafayette of the French line came in third. This ship was captained by June Fisher and the pilot was Anne Cain. It had 102 points.

Betty Shoaf was the sailor receiving the most points during the week. She was awarded a large Girl Reserve emblem. Coming in second and third were Eleanor Matt and Theda Waters.

Votes were taken for the best all-around sailor and a tie resulted between Carrie Jane Roberts and Ruth Phillips. Each were awarded miniature copies of the ship "Constitution."

Swimming was a popular diversion of the week and the swimming instructors did excellent work, and deserve great credit for their work with the advanced swimmers and the beginners.

Two girls, Theda Waters and Ruth Phillips, passed the junior life saving tests. Ten girls, Marilyn Blank, Mary Crisel, Phyllis Dilks, Virginia Mitchell, Dorothy McCall, Jane Bryan, Virginia Boyd, Viola Dufford, Josephine Daino and Genevieve Evans, passed the beginners test.

Nine girls passed the swimmers test—Lois Gibson, Elizabeth Stice, Frances Doyle, Ruth Sloan, Betty Shoaf, Olga Komarc, Josephine Windish, Leona Crane, Doris McClelland.

Anne Cain, Mettie Round and Caroline Streeter were in charge of the swimming instruction.

At the ship ceremony last night each ship decided upon some quality to practice—such as strength of character, promptness, safety, friendliness, good sportsmanship and loyalty.

Near the camp fire was a huge model ship, all lighted with electricity, and draped with blue pennants.

Dorothy Baldwin played some selections on the violin and a song was given by Dorothy Sonnyborn. During the ceremony an address of appreciation to the advisors and to Principal F. L. Burton was given by Josephine Daino. Prof. and Mrs. F. L. Burton were among the guests present.

Returning Home
Alex Costika, victim of the accident with another man had been at the property of William Thomas, on Wilmington avenue, extension, doing some work on the lawn and garden of the property. Mr. Thomas was foreman of Costika, who was employed in the picking department of the Shenango Tin plant.

When he decided to go home, he suggested that his companion accompany him, but the other man said he would remain and work a while longer. This may have saved the other man's life as he could not have escaped being crushed in the same manner as Costika had been in the car.

The storm struck downtown New Castle with a fury that was not to be denied, near five o'clock. North Jefferson, Mercer and East streets felt the force of its destructive breath and along all three streets great branches of trees were torn from the trunks, menacing passers-by and impairing the beauty of the trees.

Although the storm did considerable damage within the city limits, Roy Dixon, assistant superintendent of the State Highway Department in Lawrence and Mercer counties, reported no outstanding damage resulted on any of the state highways in the district.

Two large plate glass windows, one at Butz Bros., florists, North Mercer street, and another at the Halle Bros., clothiers, The Castle-ton, were blown out.

Numerous small windows were damaged in homes in the city.

In addition to the giant tree that resulted in a fatality to a motorist on North Jefferson street Saturday, the storm blew down trees in several parts of the city. Street Commissioner Moore reported.

Trees were reported down at Falls and Rebecca streets, Rhodes Place, Rural avenue, Shenango street and Walnut street.

Trees Uprooted
Reports from the Harlansburg road section indicate the whipping wind brought down trees in any number of fruit orchards and leveled telephone and electric light wires.

Repair crews of both telephone and light companies were on the scene restoring the broken service today.

At the W. E. Patton farm, to the right of the Harlansburg road in the fair ground vicinity, eight apple trees were uprooted. Horses in the barn there also became panic stricken momentarily and caused some concern for their safety.

Power Lines Hit
Widespread damage is reported by the line department of the Pennsylvania Power Company whose employees were out late into the night to repair circuits.

In addition to numerous light lines that were out of commission it is reported by the department that several burnt out transformers were found.

On Locust street a tree was blown on two high tension lines carrying of 2,200 volts and feeding the Pulaski road sub-station which in turn supplies power to the North Hill, Leesburg and New Wilmington. Lights were out in these communities for over a half hour, it is reported.

Damage was reported on the Harlansburg road where a giant maple fell and tore away high tension wires from a sub-station. The wires crossed near the Bill McCracken home.

Seventh ward firemen report a chimney on the home of G. B. Glass, 2 Rabbit avenue, was struck by lightning, bringing a damage loss of about $25.

City Will Permit Driveway To Lot
Council met today in city hall and indicated they would permit the Marquis heirs to construct a driveway from South street into the Marquis parking lot between South Mercer street and Apple Way.

Attorney Samuel McCracken represented the property-owners. He pointed out that cars allowed to park on the north side of South street made it difficult for cars to enter and leave the lot.

By motion of Councilman Genkinger the request was referred to Councilman Treser and Engineer Miller. Asked by Treser, colleagues indicated they would vote in favor of permitting construction of a driveway.

Several notices have been issued to the property-owners, according to Burns. If no action is taken by them council will do the work and charge it against the property-owners.

Mrs. Potter Is Named Officer Of State Auxiliary

Installed As Color Bearer At Ceremonies At Encampment Saturday

Mrs. Flossie Potter, president of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Harry L. McBride Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, was installed as No. two color bearer at ceremonies attending upon the induction of the new officers for the coming year at the department encampment which closed at Conneaut Lake Saturday afternoon.

In addition to Mrs. Potter Mrs. Twila Bolt of the Sharon Auxiliary and Mrs. Mary Smith of the Butler Auxiliary were honored by similar appointments. They will serve at the convention next year.

The Auxiliary made a splendid showing in membership and should have won the cup for the greatest gain shown by any post in the state, but for the fact that the names of several of the members taken in during the last few weeks had not been placed on the records.

The winning auxiliary had gained but 48 new members since June 1, 1930, while the local auxiliary has taken in 41 new members since the first of November, 1930.

The McBride Post Auxiliary won the cup last year and should have had the cup again, but for this oversight on the part of the chapter in turning the names in to the state department.

Dr. William L. Steen today issued his annual warning that persons should not drink water from the Glenmore spring, near Oak Park cemetery. THE PARENT PROBLEM

Punishment For Accident Is Unworthy

Parents Should Treat Child's Mishap As Adult's

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Lead Division Parental Education,
Cleveland College, Western Reserve University.

Two boys of seven are playing a game of chase in the living room. You see them. Perhaps you say, "Be careful". The running grows more vigorous until one boy bumps against the arm of the most expensive rocker, wrecking it. If he is your boy you probably "land" on him with a scolding or more painful punishment.

But why? Even though you cautioned him, he thought he was being careful. He certainly did not intend to break the chair. You knew very well that children running in a room endanger the furniture. But you did not stop the running. You really were responsible for the damage done.

Suppose you clearly had commanded him not to run. Then if he had continued to do so you should have punished him at once. The breaking of the chair was a mere accident and should have been considered so. You are sorry that the chair was broken; so is he. There let it end. By this time you must have it in your head that games of chase in the house are not to be allowed.

Nine-year-old Rebecca spills a glass of milk upon the dinner table. It was an accident, and there is no occasion for rebuke. You calmly ought to help her to prevent as much damage as is possible and treat it merely as a day's event, just as if an apple had rolled from the fruit basket when you walked across the room. If Rebecca had, however, been engaged at antics which you knew put the glass of milk in danger you should have seen to it that the antics ended or that the milk had been removed to safety.

Luelva comes home with a hole torn in her dress. In a running game a playmate had seized her, and in Luelva's eagerness to escape the dress was torn. Are you going to punish her? No.

A certain other child having met with such a mishap was sent back to school next day with an ugly patch roughly sewed on her dress as punishment. How terrible!

If a child comes home frequently with torn clothes she needs some guidance in carefulness. This can be given during her play in and about the home. If necessary, let her be punished for activities which have been defined as dangerous to her clothes. After the damage has been done it is usually too late for punishment. It is not well to put the girl under trial to tell how this garment had been torn, else you tempt her to lie, and, to punish on the basis of the injured dress may be to punish merely for an accident which the child could not have prevented.

You and I have all sorts of accidents, some of which are very expensive. If our co-partner scolds us we are tremendously annoyed. When we parents act as cultivated persons toward each other, we betray our good breeding by keeping quiet or by assuring our unfortunate companion that "it could have happened to anybody." When are we parents going to approach a similar level of good breeding in respect to accidents which befall our children?

EDITOR'S NOTE: Two pamphlets by Dr. Myers may be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Garry C. Myers, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Punishments and Rewards"

CHURCH SCHOOL IS TO HAVE VACATION

In accordance with the custom that has prevailed for several years past, the Church School of Trinity Episcopal church, will during July and August and until the first Sunday after the opening of the public schools in September enjoy a vacation period. During the period that the church school is on vacation, the parents will take their children to the regular church services each Sunday morning.

Penn State To Pick Freshmen Class Members

Work Of Granting Admission To First Of 1,200 Members Is Started

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., June 22.—Granting of admission to the first of 1200 boys and girls who will be selected for the next freshman class at the Pennsylvania State College, was started today by the college registrar, William S. Hoffman.

Penn State entrance requirements are similar to those maintained by other leading colleges and universities of the east, and virtually the same rules that have applied to Penn State admissions for the past decade will be followed this year. Close selection of students on their high school grades is necessary due to limited facilities on the campus, preference being given to those who were graduated in the upper two-fifths of their high school classes.

Applicants who have completed the required preparatory work, but who were graduated in the lower three-fifths of their high school classes, will be given an aptitude test before being admitted to Penn State, the registrar said. The test will be given August 7 at the college and in seventeen conveniently located cities throughout the state. Applicants will be informed a week or ten days later of the results of the test, Mr. Hoffman estimated.

Repairing Autos On Highways Is Accident Cause

State Auto Club President Points Out Danger In Practice

HARRISBURG, Pa., June 22.—Use of the highway as a repair shop when something goes wrong with the car has become a big contributing factor to the steadily increasing toll of automobile accidents in Pennsylvania, the Pennsylvania Motor Federation, state unit of the American Automobile Association, revealed today in warning drivers to guard against this practice.

"With millions of motorists on the road this summer it is obvious that converting the highway into a temporary repair shop to fix a tire or make a minor adjustment is a hazardous practice," said S. Edward Gable, president of the federation. "Many motorists, however, are oblivious to this danger and also seem unaware of the fact that the state law makes them liable to arrest and fine for hogging the road in this way. When a tire goes flat, instead of pulling off the road they are content to stop on the highway and make the change. This is especially dangerous when the tire is on the left side, requiring the motorist whose car is left even partially on the road to work in the very line of traffic. This not only endangers the man changing the tire, but causes other drivers passing that way to veer to the left, oftentimes onto the right of way of the car coming in the opposite direction."

"The motor code makes such practices unlawful. Section 1019 provides that no person shall park any vehicle, whether attended or unattended, upon the paved or main portion of any highway, outside of a business or residence district, when it is practicable to park or leave such vehicle standing off the improved traveled portion of such highway. In no event, the code stipulates, shall a vehicle be parked upon any highway unless a clear and unobstructed width of not less than fifteen feet shall be left free for passage of other vehicles, nor shall a clear view of the road for 200 feet in either direction be possible. These provisions, of course, do not apply to a vehicle disabled to such an extent that it is impossible to avoid stopping immediately, but even in such cases the motorist should get the disabled vehicle off the highway as rapidly as possible."

Stopping on the crest of a hill or at a curve is a particularly dangerous practice, and should be avoided except in cases of extreme emergency, the federation head stated. He also warned against the habit some drivers have of stopping on the road to test oil or to ask a motorist or pedestrian for information.

Reflex headaches mean those which are caused by the strain or disease of some part of the body—the strain being reflected in the form of a headache, not by pain or distress of the organ actually abnormal.

The commonest of these are headaches from eye strain. They usually appear first in youth and often early in school life, and any strain which is put on the eyes first makes itself known, because then for the first time close work is begun. The characteristic thing about eye-strain headaches is that they appear in the afternoon or evening. In the morning the patient wakes up without discomfort. This is exactly the opposite from another form of reflex headache—that due to disease of the sinuses of the nose—which is likely to be worse in the morning after a night of congestion in the nose and lack of drainage.

The treatment of eye-strain headaches is to fit the patient to perfectly adapted glasses. Since eye-strain headaches are caused by very slight deviations of the lens of the eye—astigmatism and moderate degrees of short and long sightedness—it is almost impossible to fit glasses for such a patient properly without putting drops in the eyes to relax the muscles.

The reflex headache due to disease of the nose has just been mentioned. The pain of such a headache may be exactly over the sinus which is diseased, or it may be general over the whole head. The frontal sinus is one of the easiest to be stopped up because the hole through which it drains is very small. The frontal sinuses are just over the orbits of the eyes, and severe pain in this place can usually be attributed to infection of one or the other of the sinuses. Immediate relief is obtained when the sinus is opened and the contained secretion emptied.

A form of headache due to lumps and scar tissue in the neck has been described. The lumps and hardenings are not evident to casual inspection or even feeling, but can be made out in the neck muscles if carefully felt for. Massage and hot applications to the neck are the means of cure.

Another form of reflex headache has been ascribed to impacted unerupted molar teeth, particularly a third molar of wisdom tooth. Personally, I have had no successful experience with such a condition, but mention it because men of ability have described it.

Malposition of the uterus and other organs are by some physicians thought to be the cause of chronic headaches. Here again my own experience is in the negative, but such Answer: Pyelitis is an inflammation of the pelvis of the kidney. The usual form of infection is by the same germ that is in the large bowel, and for that reason it is generally assumed the condition has some relation to constipation.

Engineers Say Highway Marsh Can Be Filled

Say New Location Of Perry Highway As Good As
The Old Route

FURTHER SOUNDINGS ARE TO BE TAKEN

Engineering experts who went over the Conneaut Marsh fill on the Perry Highway last week, are of the opinion that the marsh can eventually be filled. They expressed the belief that had the new highway been continued over the old route the same difficulty would have been encountered.

Approximately 250,000 cubic yards of earth has been poured into the swamp without a solid road bed being constructed and the operations were halted by the department.

Charles Boehler, engineer of the Michigan State Highway Department; C. A. Burns, assistant chief engineer of the New Jersey Highway Department; and F. R. Layne, chief engineer of the Bessemer & Lake Erie Railroad company, inspected the project at the request of Secretary of Highways Lewis. They will make a report later. They said they believed the swamp could be filled.

Samuel Eckles, chief engineer of the Pennsylvania Highway Department; T. C. Frame, Harrisburg division engineer; Stanton C. Funk, Franklin district engineer, and Secretary Lewis also were in the inspection party.

Those in touch with the situation say that complete examination of the sub-structure of earth at that point will be made beginning today, to amplify those made originally. After these findings are tabulated, the actual amount of earth which will be required to complete the fill so that it cannot sink under the weight of concrete will be known, and the approximate cost of the work.

According to reports of the discussion Saturday, the engineers are agreed that the present location is probably as good as any that might be selected to cross "the Marsh." For one thing, the topography beyond the marsh to the north is considered as good as could be found. The principal thing, however, is that the old road, the course of the old Perry highway, would have presented at least as many difficulties as the present attempt to span the marsh. This has been indicated by the results of sounding, made in the vicinity of the old bridge, which show the solid clay bottom to be quite far removed from the surface.

Not the slightest question is raised over the fact that the marsh cannot be filled. The question now is, where the exact spot selected is the best one, and how much more material will be required to complete the task. The theory of "bottomless pit" is scouted, as it has been from the first by those who have made soundings. The bottom has been found at every point where it has been sought, although it is of varying depth from the surface.

Money Is Stolen At Confectionery Store

Officer Harry Flinner Discovers
The Robbery In Making Rounds

Officer Harry Flinner on making his rounds Sunday morning about 3:30 o'clock, discovered evidence that a robbery had occurred at the Lawrence Confectionery store, corner of Croton avenue and East Washington street.

Investigation by Officer Flinner and other officers indicated that the robbery had occurred between the time of discovery and about 2 a. m., when the store was closed.

Entrance was effected by forcing a large front window of the store. Apparently no effort was made to take any of the stock or force the store open.

The robbers were successful, however, in securing $25 in cash, from the cash register of the place.

U. S. S. Akron, "Flying Battleship," Nears Completion In Great Dock; To Be Important Arm Of United States Fighting Forces

(1) Commander Rosendahl, in command of the Akron (2), artist's conception; (3) Dr. Karl Arnstein, in charge of construction; (4) at work on the duralumin girders; (5) Lieut. T. G. W. Settle, chief navy representative during the construction.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of a series of five stories on the new navy dirigible, the U. S. S. Akron.)

By BONITA WITT
Central Press Staff Writer

AKRON, Ohio, June 22.—Some sunny day this summer you may be craning your neck to catch a glimpse of the greatest ship of the air, the U. S. S. Akron, pride and joy of the navy, sailing overhead on her maiden voyage.

This huge lighter-than-air craft which dwarfs the Los Angeles and even the Graf Zeppelin, is nearing completion at her dock in Akron, where she has been under construction since November, 1929. Visitors to the dock (don't make the mistake of saying hangar when the navy is within earshot), are awed by the towering bulk of the craft, which, huge though it is, occupies only a relatively small part of the giant hangar.

Thousands Watch Building
Hundreds of thousands of visitors have streamed through the Good-year Zeppelin dock to inspect the craft, trying to visualize the part which she will play as an arm of Uncle Sam's fighting forces.

Whereas the Los Angeles, by terms of an international agreement, is restricted solely to civil employment, the Akron, and her sister ship, yet to be built, are men-of-war, or goddesses of war, if you prefer. Sixteen rapid-fire 50-caliber machine guns are to be mounted on the Akron, ready to spit their deadly fire down upon enemy aircraft.

There is room in her insides for five speedy pursuit planes, which can be launched within a few minutes to attack enemy squadrons or bomb battleships. When the airplanes desire to return to the Akron, they merely will fly underneath, connect with a hook, and be hauled into the interior, while the airship is speeding at a rate of 80 miles an hour.

Rosendahl in Command.
Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, U. S. N., has been assigned to the dirigible as first in charge. His will be the task of developing the craft to her full efficiency as a military machine. To a great degree the part which she will play in revolutionizing modern warfare must of necessity devolve itself on Commander Rosendahl.

Before we go any further let us straighten one thing out. When you are speaking of Commander Rosendahl is connection with his position on the Akron he is "captain." From Lieut. T. G. W. Settle, chief of the navy inspection force, at Akron, we learn that even a junior grade navy lieutenant, acting as commanding officer of a navy ship, is captain during the period of that command. Likewise his second in command, regardless of navy rank, is referred to as "the commander."

You're in the Navy Now
Furthermore the control car is "the bridge," the floors are "decks," the walls of the ship are "bulkheads," the dining room is the "messroom," up on top is "top side," and the kitchen is "the galley."

Dr. Karl Arnstein, who has built 70 airships, is in charge of construction of this giant ship and the navy is in back of him at every turn. There isn't a rivet pounded into the frame that goes unseen by the navy. Lieutenant Settle and his inspectors personally have passed on each of the 6,500,000 rivets which hold the frame together.

Heave away, then, until tomorrow when we'll tell you about the insides of Uncle Sam's newest weapon of war, the $2,500,000 flying battleship on the Akron he is "captain." From

LOOKING BACK

IN NEW CASTLE

New Castle ninety years ago was small but of considerable importance in many ways. The census of that year gave New Castle a population of 611. During that year the Erie Extension canal was completed as far north as Greenville, Mercer county, and that added to the material importance of this community. Among its merchants at that time were William Watson, Thomas McCleary, William Moore, Joseph T. Boyd and Joseph Kissick. New Castle as a shipping center was beginning to show considerable importance. Surplus produce shipped from the town from September 1840 to June 1841 included the following: Wheat, 71,900 bushels; flour, 9,231 barrels; bacon, 143,000 pounds; wool, 23,600 pounds; whiskey 300 barrels. Small separate shipments of flour by farmers of the district amounted to 2,000 barrels in addition to that mentioned previously. This would indicate that New Castle at that time was an agricultural center of no mean proportions and that there must have been some industrious individuals, who did an extensive business in marketing the surplus products raised on the farms of the district.

ELLWOOD CITY FLIER DIES RESULT OF PLANE CRASH; COMPANION IS INJURED

Ray C. Latimer Is Victim Of Accident — Clarence
Shaffer Hurt

Plane Crashes Near Country
Club On Saturday Evening

ELLWOOD CITY, June 22.—Ray Charles Latimer, 31, died of a fractured skull in the Ellwood City hospital at 11:00 o'clock last night as a result of an airplane crash, when he and a friend, Clarence "Ki" Shaffer, 29, were caught in the rain storm above the Ellwood City Country Club about 6:30 Saturday evening.

Latimer died Sunday night without regaining consciousness. Shaffer's greatest injury was a broken left arm. He also received bruises on the shins, shoulders, and chest.

The two men had left the local airport a little after 6:00 o'clock to go for a ride, with Latimer piloting the Waco plane. They got in the region of the Ellwood City Country Club when the storm broke at full force. "A back wind hit us and gave us altitude, but the next breath of wind took it away like a leaf and sent us into a nose dive and tail spin towards the earth. The last I remember before getting to the hospital was seeing Willie Justine." This was the statement made by "Ki" Shaffer upon being interviewed by a representative of this paper.

According to the condition of the wrecked plane Latimer had endeavored to right the plane before it struck the earth. Its left wing was smashed, showing that it had crashed on that side. The propeller had apparently broken when it hit the ground upon a regular revolution. The other wing was also broken. Shaffer estimates that the plane was about 350 feet high before starting its downward plunge. The plane crashed on the Walter Jackson farm just opposite No. 6 fairway at the Ellwood City Country Club.

Bill McKinney, a paper boy was seeking shelter under a tree during the storm when the plane crashed and was the first person on the scene. Willie Justine, former high school star at the Municipal Golf Course, which is adjacent to the Ellwood City Country Club, had seen the plane take its downward course and immediately rushed out into the storm to the scene. Upon his arrival there he noticed that Shaffer had extricated himself from the wreckage and with the aid of Walter Jackson and another man he with drew Latimer who was unconscious. The two injured men to the local hospital in the latter sedan. One strange incident, was that upon arriving in town Shaffer got out of the car and proceeded on foot to the hospital in a dazed condition. His ability to do this was surprising.

Shaffer resides on Orchard avenue in the Fourth ward and is employed in the National Tube Company of this city. His condition is reported good today.

The deceased was living with his mother Mrs. Laura Latimer, on Bridge street extension of this city. He had bought his plane in Ohio two years ago and has been flying steadily. Planes have been a hobby of his.

He was preceded in death by his father a year and a half ago. Besides his mother he leaves his widow, Mrs. Grace Milligan Latimer, one sister, Mrs. Earl Beakley of First avenue, two brothers, Harry of Line avenue and Carl at home.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the First Christian church of which he was a staunch member, with Rev. H. D. K. Huber pastor of the church and Rev. Paul H. Elliott officiating. Interment will take place in the Locust Grove cemetery.

Coroner J. P. Caldwell was notified and with Coroner H. C. McCarter of Beaver county, is investigating the case.

Announces Candidacy For Republican Party Nomination In Fall

P. O. ELDER

To The Republican Voters of Lawrence County:

In announcing my candidacy for the office of County Commissioner of Lawrence County, at the primaries to be held September 15, 1931, I desire to state briefly, some of the policies which will govern me, if nominated and re-elected to said office.

In order that the taxes may be kept at a minimum, I will endeavor to conduct said office on a policy of rigid economy, as I firmly believe that under the present financial and economic depression, that it is a wise policy to exact from the taxpayer in the way of taxes, as small an amount as is consistent with the efficient management of County affairs.

I believe that it would be a matter of great convenience to the taxpayers, if a statement of taxes were mailed to each taxable, showing the valuation, the rate of assessment, and the amount of tax, and if nominated and re-elected to this office, I will advocate and do all in my power to carry this out.

In asking for re-election to this office, I do so with the consciousness that while the present Board may have made mistakes, that we have at all times endeavored and with no small success, to conduct the affairs of the County in the interest of all taxpayers.

I will appreciate your support and influence.

Local Man Goes Fishing, Kills Big Rattle Snake

Another Is Endangered Before Shot Ends Career Of Silent Rattler

A rattlesnake that measured four feet and seven inches in length with a diameter of three inches was shot by Frank A. Gray, 919 Wundrow avenue while on a fishing expedition for trout in Elk county last Friday and while a companion was in danger of being bitten by the reptile.

The snake, did not make its customary rattle and came near to striking Michael Meyer of St. Mary's P.A., who was with Gray at the time.

The customary warning of the rattlesnake in the state this summer, according to hunters reports, several snakes that were killed in Elk county this season gave no warning of impending danger, a fact that is contrary to the general nature of the rattlesnake.

Gray warns those who go trout fishing to be constantly on the watch for these reptiles along streams.

Gray skinned his snake and brought the skin to the city. It contains 14 rattles.

Pour Concrete In Pearson Street
Pearson Street Cartway Width Changed From 24 To 22 Feet

Employees of Victor Olsen company today commenced pouring concrete in Pearson street, according to City Engineer Frank Miller. The thoroughfare is to be concreted between Taylor and Epworth street and when completed the cartway will be 22 instead of 24 feet.

The decrease in the width was caused by a desire to save about 22 trees along the thoroughfare which would have been probably ruined, according to councilmen. If the width was kept at 24 feet, the property-owners, it is reported signed favorably for the 22 feet.

Pollard Hopes To Win From Willie

May Be Knockout When Ritchie Meets Di Muccio Friday

SIX OTHER BOUTS TO BE STAGED

Ollie Pollard believes that he will be able to steal the limelight from Willie Stribling when the junior lightweight meets in one of the seven four round bouts at the Castle hotel boxing carnival Friday night. Pollard is said to be a flashy youngster who recently met Vito Mangine.

Pollard is training daily with Bill Donnell, Elmer Badger and other pugilists who are in the thick of training for the fight. He is well known and hopes to make his pugilistic debut with a victory and fans who are gazing forward believe they will see plenty of fast action.

Homer Gray will have plenty of trouble in front of him when Bill Donnell tosses gloves, according to Arch Cumo. Homer has won all his bouts. Donnell is tough, rugged and hits good. Walter West has been matched to fight Vito Mangine and while Walter has had several trips into the ring, Mangine intends to tear into him the minute the bell rings.

There will be five other bouts on the card and chief among them will be a clash between Joe Di Muccio and Ray Ritchie. They are a pair of class 122 pounders who can box and hit and it wouldn't be surprising were one of them stopped. Rivalry is keen and their managers have instructed them to turn in a knockout which means plenty of action for the fans.

Ed. Fritz, Ad Lang, Tommy Jones, Joe Alexander, Py Williams, Emmett Rocco, Jimmy Dime, and in fact a score or more other New Castle people yesterday visited the training camp of Max Schmeling, heavyweight champion, at Conneaut Lake. They witnessed the German go through his training for his bout with Stribling.

The cuts above the eyes of Emmett Rocco are healing nicely and within a few weeks the big Elkwood City boy will be able to enter the ring again. Excepting the cuts Rocco did not take any other punishment and said he felt fine. He is keeping in shape by doing roadwork and hammering the bags.

Unusual Play Occurs Saturday

An unusual play occurred in the Shenango Pottery-Universal Sanitary baseball contest on Saturday afternoon at Centennial field.

In one of the innings Shenango tallied one run which did not count. Anyhow the umpires ruled so. Universal Sanitary protested that J. Soho entered the game without reporting to the umpire. Umpire Gillum in turn rules that Soho was out. The out with the third for the Shenango team, thus the run did not count.

The rule states that when a substitute is about to enter a game he must report to the umpire. In the major league a player failing to do this is fined $25. In the Lawrence county league there is no fine. Whether Gillum was justified in calling out Soho and throwing out the run is not known. The run would have been deadlocked the contest. The Shenango team finally won 3-2. The play created lots of confusion among the fans as well as the players.

Golfers Start Seeking Places On Ryder Team

Ed Dudley Is Cynosure Of All Eyes As He Tees Off At Columbus, Ohio

(International News Service) SCIOTO GOLF CLUB, Columbus, O., June 22.—Troubled only by swelling hills and an uncut rough—hazards that Mother Nature left behind—13 hopeful professional golfers teed off on this ruggedly simple course today in a 72 hole battle for two vacancies on Uncle Sam's Ryder cup team.

About them when they started out over these historic fairways—here where Bobby Jones won his second national open title in 1926—lounge the eight Britishers whom the two victors of today and six others will meet in the distinctly international Ryder cup matches Friday and Saturday.

Al Watrous of Birmingham, Mich., and Joe Turnesa of Elmford, N. Y., were the first at the tee, and when the first drive whistled out over the rolling slopes, Columbus officially replaced Dayton, O. where the Western open was held last week, as the world's golf capital.

Big Ed Dudley, the rangy, gangling Wilmington, Del. pro, who mastered the traps at the Dayton Miami Valley Club to pocket the Western open title, stroled to the tee in two some No. 4, and from the hush that settled down over the gallery when his long arms lashed into the ball, it was evident that he was the man the crowd came to see.

Cascade Trims East New Castle

Stars Missing In British Tourney

Mrs. Helen Willis Moody And Bill Tilden Not In Competition

By F. A. WRAY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WIMBLEDON, Eng., June 22.—With its color somewhat dimmed by the absence of Mrs. Helen Willis Moody and William T. Tilden, the annual British lawn tennis tournament gets under way here today.

The non-participation of Miss "Poker-Face" and the lanky Tilden whose tennis brilliance has been a regular feature of the tournament for years, left the outcome of the singles matches a matter of keen speculation. In many respects, the tournament is the most "open" one that has been staged for the last ten years.

George M. Lott, Jr., John Van Ryn and Frank X. Shields will carry the banner for America in the men's matches. Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra, representing the last of the "four musketeers" of France, were concerned to be up against stiff opposition in the doubles from the American players as well as H. W. "Bunny" Austin and Fred J. Perry, king-pins of the British squad.

The absence of Mrs. Moody, whose unparalleled skill made the championship a certainty for the United States during the last four years, means that a new woman titleholder must be found.

Legion Of Honor Golfers To Meet

Will Play Second Leg Of Tournament This Evening At Castle Hills

Legion of Honor golfers, captained by Walter S. Reynolds and Jesse N. Kerr, will meet in the second round of their tournament on the Castle Hills course at 5:30 this evening.

Only a drenching downpour at game time will prevent the play, the team captains announced this morning.

Kerr's team was victorious in the first match played last Monday winning out by nine points after spilt play, and a real battle is anticipated this evening as both teams tighten up in their play.

All players have been requested by the team captains to be on hand promptly at 5:30 so that the play can all be completed the same evening.

Athletics Hold Increased Lead

Washington Senators Fall By Wayside As Athletics Win Four Straight

CARDS-GIANTS LOSING GROUND

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 22.—Catching the Philadelphia Athletics is such a back-breaking task that no one would blame the Washington Senators for tossing in the sponge right now.

The Senators ran their string of consecutive victories to twelve games during the past week. But checking over the results of the past seven days, they discovered this morning that their record of five wins in seven starts cost them a full game in the American League pennant chase, for the Mackmen won five straight games during that period.

Senators Lose Ground.
This morning Washington was four full games behind the world's best ball team. The Yankees, losing ground steadily, dropped three out of five during the week and are now hopelessly out of it.

The New York Giants, Brooklyn and the Phillies featured the week in the National League, each club winning four out of six games. As a result the Giants are only 2 1-2 games behind the Cards, who won four games during the week but dropped three straight to the Braves. Just why Grove and Earnshaw are poison to other American League clubs was illustrated in Chicago yesterday when the famous pitching duet of the Athletics put on their act in negotiating a 6 to 3 win over the White Sox.

Wes Ferrell, Cleveland ace, hung up his tenth triumph of the campaign in winning a 3 to 1 duel from Crowder of Washington, giving the Indians an even break in the series. The St. Louis Browns, who had lost nine straight games, turned savagely on the Yankees, taking both twins of a twin bill, 9 to 7 and 8 to 2. Seven New York errors offset homers by Gehrig, Ruth, Lazzari and Lary.

Dodgers Beat Cubs.
A homer by Earl Webb staked the Red Sox to a 7 to 6 decision over Detroit. Boots by Jackson and Marshall gave Pittsburgh a 5 to 4 victory over the Giants in the eleventh inning, 5 to 4.

Brooklyn again nosed out the Cubs in the ninth, 7 to 6, after the Braves had knotted the count with a three-run rally. The Cardinals who are not hitting, collected only eleven hits in splitting a double bill with Boston. The Braves took the opener 6 to 2, and the other 1 to 0.

The Phillies banded out twenty hits and swamped Cincinnati, 7 to 1, capturing the series four games to one. Watt held the Reds to five safe blows.

General Smedley D. Butler has retired into innocuous silence, but perhaps he's just trying to think of another good one.—The Charleston (S. C.) Evening Post.

And in the New York-Pennsylvania loop they are still talking over George Dietrich's no-hitter. George was pitching for Harrisburg the day he held Wilkes-Barre batsmen at bay without a single batted. Dietrich, incidentally, is the property of the Philadelphia Athletics.

These four no-hit games took place within the space of a week! The two Coast classics happened within a space of three days.

What is most remarkable about the Coast no-hit games is the fact that in that circuit the old lively or rabbit ball is still in use. Far West batsmen are now wondering what these hurlers would do to them if they were allowed to use the high-seam, fatheaded National league ball.

Lewis Unfolds Road Building Before Bankers

Secretary Samuel S. Lewis, Tells Bankers 2,900 Miles Of Road To Be Built

PROGRAM DOUBLED OVER LAST YEAR

(International News Service)
CONNEAUT LAKE, Pa., June 22.—Pennsylvania's highway department will build 2900 miles of road this year, Samuel S. Lewis, secretary of highways, told bankers of the state at their annual outing here. Included in the 1931 road-building program, the highway head said, are 1300 miles of improvement on the present state highway system and 1600 miles on the recently begun township road system, most of which will be carried on in rural districts. Last year the department built 1300 miles of road throughout the state.

Magistrate Fines His Best Friend

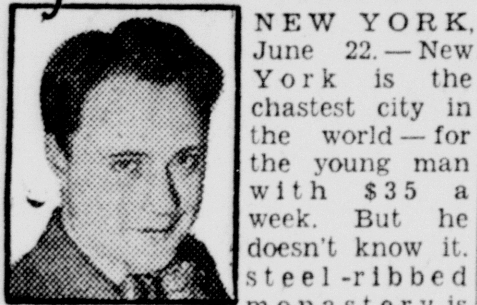

Friendship Of 25 Years Ceases In Court Room As Result Of Traffic Violation

(International News Service)
NORRISTOWN, Pa., June 22.—For 25 years, Magistrate Thomas Cronin, Ardmore, and Robert Patrick, Cynwyd, have been very good friends. Recently, the latter and his wife stood before the magistrate, charged with disorderly conduct, traffic law violation and resisting an officer, all growing out of an argument with a traffic cop. "I have to do this, Bob," said the magistrate, "but it will cost you $10 and Mrs. Patrick $5." Patrick paid and left indignant. "He's very excitable," smiled the magistrate.

CHILDREN PERFORM FOR LARGE CROWD

A capacity throng saw a host of children of the First United Presbyterian church, Glenmore boulevard, perform in the annual Children's Day program of the congregation, held Sunday evening in the church's assembly room. It substituted for the usual worship service. Short devotionals were conducted by the pastor, Dr. S. E. Irvine.

MY NEW YORK

By JAMES ASWELL
NEW YORK, June 22.—New York is the chaste city in the world—for the young man with $35 a week. But he doesn't know it. Steel-ribbed monastery is Babylon. His Greenwich Village one-room-and-bath is an exotic "studio." Subway rides to dates in the Bronx are full of piquant romance. He is away from humdrum home; leading his own life, free! For at least a year he never realizes that he is an economic monk; that lazy high jinks were left home on the country club veranda. Finally, however, he wakes up. He begins to know New York whether he knows himself or not. He drops behind the skyline into the veritable town. He becomes a New Yorker. That is a curious and exciting process when you are young—full of secession, rebellion, quick mixed ecstasy and slow comprehension of you do not know quite what. Something though—rather terrible, charged with flux and fury and challenge: a young man's dish. I would take every young man of a certain type and hurl him into New York on his own at twenty-one. I mean the breed with imagination and taste for fantastic competition and howling contrast; who can learn to be hard when it's necessary to be hard. Here he will cross high points to remember when he is old. Some of mine—

MANHATTAN PRIMER. Believing P. Scott Fitzgerald was the greatest writer in the world and finding him sitting at the next table with his wife, Zelda, in the old Jungle Inn... Whiffing for the first time the dank but strangely not unpleasant breath from a subway kiosk; standing terrifyingly on the front car platform of a hurtling South Ferry express and feeling defiantly young, ready for life and death, ready for New York... Calow? I was, but those were sharp, authentic impressions, indelible as any I will ever know... Others crowded on...
Hearing Fred McIsaacs admit in a Street & Smith editorial sanctum that he had made $50,000 writing pulp-paper thrillers the year before. (Ha! There was a racket! I could do it, too...) Enjoying a free swim from Stubby Kruger, swimming champ I'd sidekicked with in Florida, when I found him running a pool concession at Manhattan Beach... Watching Erdman, the wizard surgeon, take out an appendix in eight minutes at Post-Graduate Hospital—and wondering if I would be spotted in the audience as a layman and ejected.
MEANING—IF ANY. Those were the first months. It didn't take much to panic me then. Maybe it still doesn't. Anyway...
Back in New York after five months recuperating from pneumonia, walking the streets glazed with summer rain looking for a job

... Getting that spine-curdling thrill from an ambulance siren at the rush hour through Times-Square... Watching David Belasco rehearse Jack Dempsey and Estelle Taylor in a play... Back in newspaper work through a lucky break... Or unlucky... Attending my first big literary "tea" in the brownstone house where Horace Liveright does business—and meeting everybody in the literary firmament at one fell swoop... Deciding authors are the dullest companions on earth...
Random flickers of the town, those. But, run off like a movie film, let out with millions of others, they signify New York. Names and moods; people who crackle like fireworks in the public prints of the world and momentary uprushes of perspective on the steel and stone mazes which magnetize those people from far places.
THE BIG SHOTS. Fame fascinating me. I have the same aversion you have for people who like to link luminous names with their own; there are plenty like that around. But in a profession which constantly throws me in to contact with great and near-great, I have contracted an enormous interest in the human beings behind the highly publicized labels which get them gaped at when they walk among their fellows. I believe every one of them—well, nearly every one—has some elemental spark which sets him off. I discount luck—beyond the fortune of possessing that spark.
And because I am endlessly excited by the glamor of celebrities seen, not through their reputations, but through their trivial, highly velvety eccentricities, I revel in

New York. It is a zoo where you can come close, with patience, to the most retiring zebra and discover how fast his stripes are. We are going to inspect plenty zebras in this column from now on.
HONEST MAN'S "$300" TAKEN BY STRANGERS
AMBRIDGE, June 22.—Ambridge police and county detectives are seeking two strangers who are charged with swindling Albert Kroll, 38, World War veteran of 79 Beaver road, out of $300. Kroll told police the two men, well dressed, told him they were in search of an honest man to whom they wished to present $1,000. As an evidence of good faith Kroll drew $300 from the government as compensation. This amount he gave the men to place with the $1,300. Kroll told police he waited on the street till the men went to the bank around the corner to coin the value of some old Spanish coins. They failed to return.
DIES OF INJURIES FROM AUTO WRECK
WASHINGTON, Pa., June 22.—Arlie Tootman, 30, Grantstown, W. Va., died today in Washington hospital of a fractured skull, the victim of a crash between his automobile and a Blue Ridge bus at Laboratory, local suburb, last Thursday morning. C. C. Tennant, 25, Rivesville, W. Va., who was driving the car, in jail here charged with aggravated assault and battery, will face a charge of involuntary manslaughter, to be made tomorrow.

Trade Commission Makes Report On Price Maintenance

Reports To Congress No Legislation On Resale Price Needed

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Correspondent of The New Castle News
WASHINGTON, June 22.—No legislation permitting resale price maintenance is called for at present, the Federal Trade Commission declared today in a report sent to Congress covering a voluntary investigation of that subject undertaken by the Commission. The findings of the Commission are directly contrary to the contentions of former Representative Schuyler Merritt of Bridgeport and those who backed him in fighting for passage of the Capper-Kelly resale price bill last session. The Commission believes it would be difficult to provide government regulation of price maintenance that would bring relief to makers of trade-marked goods without injustice to consumers and at the same time meet the tests of practical administration. In effect, the Commission recommended that the government make no attempt to restrain chain stores and other cut-rate sellers from offering standard commodities to the public at reduced prices. Old War Cannon Injures Youth

(International News Service)
SHAMOKIN, Pa., June 22.—An old cannon shell, believed harmless, caused serious injury to Edward Fegey, 10, here while the boy was playing with the shell. He tapped it with a hammer and the projectile exploded. A war relic the shell had been considered effectively silenced.
ALLEGED BANDITS HELD FOR COURT
FARRELL, Pa., June 22.—Lawrence Simms of New Castle and Sam Patterson of Deatsville, Ala., arrested here for the holdup in which they beat Joseph Thomas and robbed him of $65, were held for court by Justice William Broderick on charges of highway robbery and assault and battery. No bail was set and they were taken to the county jail to await trial.
INSECT ELECTROCUTION
AKRON, O.—A fly trap which electrocutes insects is the invention of a local electrician. An electric light inside of a charged cage draws the unsuspecting flies and they are killed as they strike the wiring of the cage.
